The Longest Night

December 21,
5pm
CITP's sanctuary

THIS Sunday, December 21 at 5pm, Andrew will be offering a Longest Night Service. This worship is specifically designed for people who are experiencing the pains of loss or heartache at this time of the year. Sometimes, the holidays can be difficult. This opportunity is a simple service of prayer and song. Feel free to invite those in the larger community of family and friends who you think would find this service meaningful.

Please join us this Christmas Eve for Candlelight Worship

4pm & 7pm Worship

Yes, JOY! Christmas is about JOY -- the JOY of Jesus being born. We can "Prepare the Way" for Jesus's coming by giving help where there is a need. By noticing. By seeing. By caring. By looking into someone's eyes and saying "I see you. Help is coming. Help is here." We can help by making the "rough places plain." We can help by making what seems impossible for others -- possible.

THIS Sunday, December 21, we will be collecting the PCUSA Christmas Joy Offering. Fifty percent of this offering is shared with leaders (like pastors) in our denomination -- past and present -- who need extra help. The other 50% of the offering is shared with emerging leaders, particularly from communities of color, needing extra support (like scholarship funds).

Our JOY can reach far and wide to help others. Give generously to the Christmas Joy Offering.

---

We WELCOME all people into our community of of faith.

We WORSHIP God with gratitude for the grace given to all people through Jesus Christ.

We WITNESS the love of Christ through our gifts of time, talents, and resources as we grow together in our faith.

Shakespeare's Julius Caesar

Join this group as participants read Shakespeare's historical tragedy play about an actual historical event—that of the Roman general and statesman, Julius Caesar. Having been duly appointed dictator perpetuo “dictator for life,” he was conspiratorially assassinated by Roman senators, on the Ides of March 44 BCE, plunging Rome into civil wars. We'll connect the play's timeless themes of power and political leadership, persuasive rhetoric, ambition and betrayal, to considerations of applications for today.

Format: Reading aloud, discussion

PASTOR'S MUSING

Dear friends,

I wanted to pause from answering your questions to use this space for an invitation. This Sunday at 5 P.M., we offer an additional chance for worship in the sanctuary from 5 to 6 P.M. All are welcome. It's called the Longest Night Service. What, you ask, is that? Why would we do this?

Christmas can be merry and bright but also noisy and busy. Someone might be grieving or suffering a loss or illness. Perhaps they have lost a loved one or have a terminal diagnosis. Maybe they are worried for a child or parent. Maybe they feel burned out and simply want a quiet place. This service is for all these needs and more.

The longest night is a chance to "be still and know God" (Psalm 6:10). We will hear scripture and sing simple songs. There will be time for poetry and scripture, for silent contemplation and also intercessory prayer. We look for joy in the morning, yet likewise acknowledge that the weeping occurs in the night (Psalm 30:5). As poet Jan Richardson wrote, the blessing of the longest night “does not mean to take the night away, but it knows its hidden roads, knows the resting spots along the path, knows what it means to travel in the company of a friend.”

I bet you know that the large beams across the sanctuary’s ceiling are held in place by wooden pegs or trunnels. Perhaps you’ve heard me or someone else say that, before those pegs were inserted into the wood, church members and friends inscribed prayers and blessings upon them. I wasn’t here when this occurred but sometimes, when the sanctuary is quiet, I think I can hear the prayers over my head. God still speaks in “a still, small voice” (1 Kings 19:12). I hope you will be able to join me in holy listening.

In hope,
Andrew
